Grand Jury Probes Knott Charge

SUPERVISOR CALLED TO EXPLAIN ACTIONS; OTHERS MAY BE SUMMONED IN CASE

(Special to Record-Herald) MARTINEZ, June 28.—Supervisor Zeb Knott of Richmond is before the grand jury today on charges of having accepted certain bribes from Joseph Pasoli, proprietor of the Panama-Pacific saloon near Stege. According to information given out by Pasoli the payment of the money extends back to August. The inquiry by the grand jury follows a plea made by the Italian counsel in San Francisco that graft in Contra Costa county be investigated.

Others besides Knott are said to be involved in the affair.

Witnesses who testified today are Attorney Clare D. Horner, J. Pasoli and H. Cornell of the First National Bank, Richmond.

The grand jury went into session at 10 o'clock.

District Attorney T. D. Johnston in speaking of the case today said:

"Zeb Knott enjoys the unique distinction of having to appear before the grand jury of this county twice within six months time."

Knott made a complete denunciation of the roadside situation in the county. He said:

"I know nothing of the charges which have been made against me other than what I have seen in the newspapers."

TO CROWN QUEEN ON NIGHT OF JULY 3RD

There will be a wide variety to select from, and they can be rented for a very nominal sum. These costumes will be on display in the store recently vacated by Kelly & Olney on Macdonald avenue between Third and Fourth street. There is only one way to get into this carnival spirit and that is to get into one of these costumes and with your horn and confetti join the carnival parade on Monday night. Besides the people in costume all owners of autos are requested to join this parade and give our celebration the start that is necessary to make it the success that we all want it to be.

There will be a queen who will be crowned and the key of the city will be presented to her by His Honor Mayor Garrard. These ceremonies will take place at Tenth and Macdonald avenue and Senator James C. Owens will be the grand marshal. He will announce the line of parade and his aides later in the week.

EX-POLICEMAN STAR WITNESS FOR DEFENSE

Further testimony in the case of Rev. P. E. Petersen, charged with accepting a bribe of $70 from Helen M. Cook, alias Grace Miller follows: Assistant District Attorney T. M. Carlson, was the last witness on the stand at the time the Record-Herald went to press yesterday. He said:

"Petersen has been the man in the Hmellight. It is my belief that Ormsby got him to assist in the campaign against the redlight houses in Richmond. No, Petersen did not offer his services voluntarily. He showed a desire to get into the fight. I do not know whether he was sought or not."

Carlson was followed to the witness stand by Frank G. King, deputy county assessor. King's testimony: "I was standing at Peres' cigar store on Macdonald avenue on the night of June 16th. Carlson and Pierce came to the store. They asked the clerk if he could cash a check for $100. He informed them that Mr. Peres was out and the safe locked. I then offered to give them the money for the check. It was in currency. Yes, I took numbers of the bills."

"Why did you take the numbers of the bills?" asked Tinnings. "I had my own thoughts as to about what was going to happen."

"What do you mean?"

"I suspected something."

"Have you received any of the money back?"

"No."

"You saw nothing of it after it left your hands?"

"No sir."

"Pierce gave me the check for the money," was King's concluding statement.

Wilbur S. Pierce, an attorney-at-law, was the next witness.

Pierce started at the first of his business relations with the Miller woman. He said:

"I have been Grace Miller's attorney for some time. In response to a telephone call I went to her place. There are two phones at her home. She placed me on one extension. She called a certain number. The voice at the other end of the phone said, 'This is Petersen.'"

They talked about several past meetings and of one which was to take place within the next few days. This was about three days prior to Petersen's arrest. I am positive it was Petersen's voice at the other end of the line."

Here Pierce was questioned by Judge Jacobs as to his familiarity with Petersen's voice. Pierce maintained his correctness as to who was speaking.

"Is it customary for a man of your profession to play the part of a detective?" queried Tinnings of Pierce.

"Yes sir, if the party whom you suspicion of any wrong has always held himself up for sanctity and righteousness as Brother, I mean Rev. Petersen has done."

"What was the conversation, Mr. Pierce?"

"Well I don't remember all of it."

Police Probe Is Postponed For One Week

The city council will not hold the police probe tonight, as was announced yesterday by the Record-Herald, but the date of the inquiry into the affairs of the department has been postponed until sometime next week, according to Mayor Garrard.

It is probable that the case will come before the council some evening the middle of next week and the inquiry will be open to the public.

PULLMAN CO. IS URGED TO RUSH AVAILABLE CARS

Yards of the Pullman Car company were cleaned of the last of 60 coaches shortly before noon today, the cars being rushed by special trains to Sacramento.

At Sacramento the coaches will be filled with members of the California National Guard companies and hurriedly dispatched for the border.

It is presumed that the Pullman car yards will be empty for some considerable time for as fast as coaches arrive they will be sent to the state capital.

COUNCIL AS BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

On Monday, July 3rd the city council will meet as a board of equalization to fix the budget for 1916-17.

Although the police investigation to have been held tonight has been postponed there is possibility that the council may meet to arrange for a fund for Richmond's militia company.

TRAIN VICTIM

An inquest for William Ellis, killed by a Southern Pacific train at Giant Monday morning will be held at the Smallwood undertaking parlors tonight. Ellis according to trainmen stepped in front of the train. He was 75 years of age.

IMPRESSIONS OF PETERSEN TRIAL BY A S. F. MINISTER ARE LIFELIKE

Rev. William L. Stidger, pastor of Calvary Methodist Episcopal church, of San Francisco, attended the Petersen preliminary examination yesterday in this city and writes concerning his impressions of the hearing in the San Francisco Examiner of this morning. Among a great many other things the minister says:

"I went to Richmond yesterday to write my impressions of the Petersen preliminary hearing. My first impression was when I was introduced to the district attorney, his hands were cold, and damp, also. He looked very much worried, as though he might have spent a sleepless night. I do not think that the fact that I had heard of his great desire to change the form of his complaint against the defendant had anything to do with my noticing that his hands were cold and that he was a worried man. But the fact was that almost the first thing done at the beginning of the hearing was to change the wording of the complaint."

I watched the district attorney very closely during the early hours of the hearing and I do not think that there was a minute all during the day that he was not stroking his hair nervously, biting his finger nails (I'll warrant that every nail is bitten to the quick), crossing and uncrossing his fingers, chewing tobacco or gum (I could not tell which), shifting his hands from pocket to pocket, and constantly stroking his unshaven face. That was my first real impression of the hearing."

DO AMUSEMENTS CORRUPT?

Two great church conferences declared for a stronger stand against "worldly amusements." It seemed like a revision to Puritanism, a denial of the new liberality toward recreation that has crept into nearly all the churches.

"They were right," declared the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, a Unitarian pastor of New York, "right in their recognition of the problem, although perhaps wrong in their solution of it. He is blind who cannot see that our nation is entering a period of self-indulgence and pleasure-seeking which threatens its very soul. The action of these churches is a protest, a great and necessary protest, against deadening and corrupting influences."

He finds fault with our amusements not so much because they are wicked as because they are insane. If banal musical comedies exist for the "tired business man," most moving picture shows exist for the "tired workingman." But he questions whether ever New York business men are tired enough to enjoy the "meaningless" shows they go to. And if our working people are as tired as most of the movie programs indicate, "we are on the verge of intellectual and spiritual bankruptcy."

The nation would better have no shows at all, he says, than such entertainments, and better no dances at all than the dances of the cabarets and the cheap dance halls. To that extent he agrees with Puritanism. But he is not for "repression." What is needed, he insists, is "expression."

"When people have the least opportunity for expression, they are apt to give the loosest rein to indulgence. New York is pleasure-mad chiefly because New York has not learned to play." He thinks a universal eight-hour day would be a good thing everywhere, because it would leave people with more energy to indulge in, and demand wholesome recreation. And he would have a theater and dance hall in every church, to foster the amateur drama and the social dance in a wholesome environment.

HIGH PRICE OF EDUCATION

Not only are the material necessities of life going up in price, but the cost of education as well. In the annual report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching it is stated that tuition alone had advanced 25 per cent in the last ten years. The report said:

"The tendency to increase was active ten years ago, but it was checked by the general financial disturbances of 1907. Since that time it has developed steadily, so that the last four years represent more than half of the advance during the decade. During the past year, following the recent examples at Columbia and Yale, the fee at Princeton has been increased from $160 to $175, and next year the Harvard fee of $150, which has remained unchanged since 1869, will be increased to $200. It may be said that the representative or median fee of our institutions has increased, during the decade, from about $80 to approximately $100 a year, and that the tendency to advance fees is progressing."

Hysteria has occasionally turned the trick, but as a rule successful national issues have been backed by common sense.

WE LIVE TO LEARN

At the Petersen preliminary examination yesterday it developed that the district attorney's office of this county has been vainly striving for months and months to stamp out the vice of road houses, assignation houses, the redlight district and the liquor business; that although the office force had been working overtime in the effort along reform lines, it had been hampered in the movement by such men as Petersen who were forever asking for delay in order to give the erring ones an opportunity to pack up their belongings and move out peaceably.

The redlight abatement law has been in effect about a year and a half in the state of California and today there are almost as many houses of ill-fame in the county as there have ever been. Although its provisions are most stringent and its operation simple in the extreme, the only instance where it has been successfully invoked was at Martinez when Attorney J. E. Rodgers, single handed and alone, put one of the objectionable establishments out of business.

If there is another instance in the entire county where anything along the lines of abatement has been accomplished, let the district attorney's office speak up and proclaim the fact, for the people of Richmond are not aware of it.

OBJECT LESSON NEEDED

The Mexicans hate the gringos worse than they hate each other, therefore it must be understood that Carranza and Zapata, Obregon and Villa, if the latter is still alive, and all the other blatherskites in Mexico will forget the "sacred cause of revolution," fall on one another's necks and fight the Americans.

Now that there is no other way out, we must do the job well, and make of it a thorough clean-up of the whole bloody and dirty mess. It won't be a diversion for children. It will be work for full grown men and real Americans. It will cost hundreds of millions of dollars, and will require a bigger army than navy than this nation ever has had except during the civil war.

It may be three or four years before we have brought order out of chaos and it is likely to be a dozen years before necessity for policing the country is over, but when we have finished American lives and American property will be safe in that country, and revolutionists for hire and patriots for loot will be dead or out of business.

That was the way Generals Scott and Taylor did the job, and it can and will be done again. Let there be left no doubt in the mind of any Mexican patriot or highwayman, or both. Also let it be understood here there might be far worse business for the United States than armed intervention in Mexico. It will serve notice on the Mexicans and the world that, when the United States makes just demands on anybody, it has the will and power to enforce them. It will serve notice on Mexico and the world that there is something else in this country besides hot air.

Japan is preparing to bite off another slice of China. But, then, China has 400,000,000 people who can not fight because they have nothing with which to fight. How would you like to be the China?

SANTA FE'S TO PLAY FRESNO NEXT SUNDAY

Next Sunday the fast Santa Fe aggregation will play at Modesto. The team recently won an easy victory at Fresno where they galloped away with the long end of a 4 to 0 score. The management of the team has been seeking a game with Manager Bert Curry's Elks for the past several weeks.

IMPRESSIONS OF PETERSEN TRIAL BY PASTOR LIFELIKE

And not only does the accused member seem to realize this terrible unwritten law, but the prosecution seems to know it, and the impression that thudded itself into my consciousness with a series of brutal blows which would not be denied was that the prosecution was using its knowledge of human nature in that phase of its attitude toward an accused clergyman to the utmost.

HEARING BEFORE TOWN

In fact it seemed to me that this hearing was before the town of Richmond rather than before the judge of this particular court, for time after time testimony that would tend to ruin any man's reputation was suddenly shot at the crowded courtroom, only the next minute to be overruled by the presiding judge. A smile of satisfaction always followed a decision of this kind, for the end had evidently been accomplished whether the evidence was admitted to the court records or not. The court of the people had heard it. The prosecution knew that the public heard. That seemed enough. It did not need the continual accusation of the attorneys for the defense that this was going on, for thoughtful people in the crowd to see it; and it was not long before the nervous district attorney was in wordy combat over this very question, although there had been made no open complaint.

STORY OF EARLY LIFE

Although Petersen has spent a lifetime fighting vice interests, I am sure that anybody studying his face would immediately call him "unsophisticated." He has that appearance without doubt. There is a combination of the bulldozer Norwegian fighting face and innocence in his makeup. I found a gray haired man from Samoa, Cal., who quietly told me a story of Petersen's early life in the ministry which has never been told before and which I have fully authenticated. He was a young Norwegian pastor in Humboldt county. As many people know, a large number of the life savers of our United Service are Norwegians. Petersen was visiting a group of his friends who were in the life saving station at Samoa about twenty years ago.

There was a heavy storm and a ship which the old man who told me the story remembered as "The Chilcat," was blown ashore. The life savers were getting out their apparatus, which in those days was even more meager than it is now, and young Petersen was left alone with the crowd of women. They noticed several black objects floating in the surf. The young Norwegian minister formed a life line with these women, himself on the surf end of it, and rescued four half-drowned men from the breakers. They still tell of this young minister's heroic deed down in Samoa.

THE WOMAN IN THE CASE

The woman in the case, who was spoken of by various names, one being "Helen Cook," the one under this suit being "Grace Miller," appeared in the auditorium part of the courtroom during the morning session with two friends, and from time to time led a chorus of hollow snickerings at various points of testimony that amused her. Her levity—the levity of one who had little to lose no matter what was the outcome of the trial—contrasted markedly with the continual seriousness of the minister under accusation. I did not see him smile all day.

DINNER WITH ACCUSED

I ate dinner with the defendant. I wanted to get a chance to talk with him first hand. I learned for the first time at this meal that he was the president of the Good Government league. He was not acting, at any time in this whole matter, as an individual. I had never caught this view of the case before, nor up to late yesterday did I hear it introduced in the testimony. He was the president of this organization of law-abiding citizens. He informed me, however, that the members of this organization are kept secret, all except the president, who voluntarily exposed his name to the very attacks that have been made to serve the cause of decency.

INTERESTING BIT OF HISTORY

An interesting bit of recent history that caused a smile to go around the dinner table was when Mr. Petersen informed us that the district attorney's chief assistant, A. S. Ormsby, who is the chief prosecutor in this case, has for several months been going around speaking in the various churches of the county, including Methodist churches, posing as a reform speaker, his subject being "Human Salvage." In fact, this man, the chief betrayer of Petersen, spoke in Petersen's pulpit not more than a month ago.

THE FRIEND (?) OF PETERSEN

Another assistant in the district attorney's office, a young lawyer of tender years, who has been practicing law for a year and a half, and who received the marked bills that were given to the defendant as a trap, and who seemed from the evidence to be the author of the apparent "frame up" (to use a term that was current in the courtroom), caused a round of laughter when he piously laid claim to being one of the minister's staunch friends, one whom it hurt every much to have to do this, one who saw his duty and did it although it made him suffer grievously, more, as he said, "for the wife and the children of the accused than for his dear friend." It was another case of "This hurts me more than it does you."

A CARTOON RECALLED

It reminded one of a recent cartoon which shows Teddy Roosevelt shooting the poor old delapidated Bull Moose, saying as he does with a big tear falling from his right eye, "This hurts me more than it does you." The audience caught the apparent hypocrisy of this man's statement that he was the minister's true friend, especially when W. S. Tinning, the attorney for the defense, in cross-examination, said: "I suppose that even Judas would have had some explanation for his betrayal of the Savior." The judge had to rap for order at the end of this pertinent remark. The crowd was with the accused minister without doubt.

Young Wilbur Pierce was put on the stand as the attorney representing Grace Miller, the alleged prostitute. He was a boyish looking figure with a blue tie, a big diamond set in black, tan shoes with grey tops, and a battery of pencils and fountain pens in his

FARRAR PERFORMS EX-POLICEMAN STAR AT RICHMOND THIS EVE.

Geraldine Farrar, the noted grand opera prima donna and motion picture star of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play company, will appear at the Richmond theater tonight in "Maria Rose," said by those who have seen it to be the best of the three photoplays she made for the Lasky company, the others being "Carmen" and "Temptation." Like the others "Maria Rose" was produced by Clet B. DeMille. Wallace Reid appears in the leading masculine role.

These are facts of exceptional interest in connection with Miss Farrar in "Maria Rose," as it was during the making of this photoplay that she met and fell in love with Lou Tellegen, whom she recently married. Three years ago when Mr. Lou Tellegen came to the United States to make his debut on the American stage as an English speaking actor, he chose as his first play, "Maria Rose." Previously the young actor had appeared for two seasons in American tours as leading man with Mme Sarah Bernhardt.

The same program includes the Pathe News pictures, particularly interesting these days, and another funny number of the mirth provoking "Lonesome Luke" series.

SOCIETY PLAN A PARCEL POST SALE

Final plans are being made by the Ladies Aid Society of the First Methodist church for a parcel post sale in the church assembly rooms Friday night. The program arranged for the evening follows:

Music by orchestra.
Recitation, Mrs. Gurrie's election class.
Vocal solo, Mrs. S. F. Jenkins.
Selection by orchestra.
Recitation, Mrs. C. S. Gibson.
Selection by orchestra.
Mrs. Charles Adams is chairman of the arrangements committee.

LANE AND BOONE IN ELECTRIC POSITIONS

Uncle Sam was responsible for two changes in the personnel of the office force of the Western States Gas and Electric company today. W. J. Lane, who has been associated with the company as a collector was promoted to office cashier by C. M. Brewer, local manager, to fill the position made vacant by Forrest Winfree. Winfree resigned to join the National Guard. W. A. Boone, for many years connected with the J. C. Owens Realty company has taken Lane's former position.

Upper coat pocket that marked him as a formidable man. He amused the crowd greatly, this attorney, for the alleged woman of the underworld, when, in an inadvertent moment, he referred to the minister in the unmistakable phraseology of the church by calling him "Brother"—then he corrects himself blushing with "Reverend Petersen."

I counted the phrase "Held to Answer" used more than twenty times during this trial. It fit in everywhere. It was on the lips of judges, witnesses, attorneys, spectators in every conversation. I was reminded of the recent book "Held to Answer" by Peter Clarke McFarlane of San Francisco, which could be followed in every detail, even to the characters in the story up to the present status of this case and would exactly parallel this minister's persecution.

One last impression. In the early part of the day, when objection had been repeatedly offered to the manner in which the prosecuting attorney was bringing in evidence calculated to damage the reputation of the minister forever, and this evidence in turn was repeatedly ruled out by the judge, in irritation the district attorney exclaimed: "This is not a trial before a jury. Your Honor, this is more in the nature of an investigation."

To a layman who knows the history of the "Inquisition" this statement just about only covers what the district attorney's office seems to desire to make of this hearing. This was the dominant impression that the day's proceedings made on me. I felt that it was a pure "frame up" from beginning to end, clumsily executed.

but for the most part it was that Grace Miller feared a raid from the police or the district attorney's office. She told Petersen about it. She said: "I'm afraid there will be trouble." Petersen said: "I'll find out and let you know." Grace Miller said: "If it is so I'll get out. Petersen promised an immediate investigation."

"There was no talk of money?"

No sir.

"On the night of June 16th I gave Mr. King a check for $100. The money was in currency. I took the money and gave it to Grace Miller at her home on Railroad avenue. Later I went to the church study. That was after I had attended a lodge meeting. With me on the visit was Carlson and another officer. Kreamer and Standford were already there. I didn't see any search of Grace Miller. There was no money found on Petersen. I looked through the study in company with the officers. No seats or pews were torn up in my presence. The Miller woman said: 'Of course I gave it to him, ain't that so Petersen?' Petersen asked for his friends or an attorney. Petersen said the Miller woman must have taken the money."

Patrolman Daniel Cox was called next.

His testimony was very brief. Johnson attempted to draw a laugh from the audience with the remark, "You haven't been suspended, have you, Cox?"

Cox said: "When I reached the study of Rev. Petersen, Carlson, Pierce, Grace Miller and Kreamer were there. Standford was reading the warrant to him. I assisted in searching the place. Most of my searching was in the church basement. I did not see any property destroyed. I do not remember of having seen Grace Miller searched."

Mrs. Harriet Lee, matron at the city jail followed Patrolman Cox in the witness chair. Her testimony at times was almost inaudible. She said:

"Between 12 o'clock and five minutes to one, on the night of June 16th, I was summoned to the police station and instructed to search Grace Miller. I found the Miller woman in a private room off the station hallway. I don't know how long she had been there. That was the first time I had ever seen her. I searched her all over."

"Mrs. Lee," said Tinning, "Did you search the Miller woman thoroughly?"

"As near as possible."

"Did you put your hands inside her stockings?"

No sir.

"Did you search her shoes?"

No sir.

"Then, as far as you know Mrs. Lee, the Miller woman could have had several hundred dollars in paper money in her shoes?"

"Yes sir."

Roy Kreamer, suspended police sergeant, was then called. He said: "I was detailed to work on the evening of June 16th by Mr. Carlson. I was called away from a whistle party. With Policeman Standford I went up Richmond avenue from the police station. We went to the study of the First Methodist church. I crept up to the door very carefully. My instructions were to break in when Grace Miller said, 'well everything is O. K. Is it?' The study was lit up when I took my position at the study door. Grace Miller and Petersen were talking. I didn't hear what they were saying. Then I heard Grace Miller say: 'Well Petersen everything is O. K. Is it?' Then she opened the door and came out. As soon as I could step back to the door I banged on it and said: 'Petersen let me in.' I said this four times."

"Did you at any time, Mr. Kreamer, inform Mr. Petersen that you were an officer?"

No sir.

"Did you say anything else?"

"Yes."

"At my fourth demand I said, 'Petersen if you don't open this door I'll bust it down.'"

"You did eh?"

"Do you think you did right by making such a threat, after you had failed to tell me you were other than to say you were Kreamer?"

"I suppose you thought the word Kreamer was enough to strike fear into anyone's heart."

"Not exactly."

"Why didn't you mention the fact that you were an officer?"

"I realize I made a blunder."

"The lights went off and on while I stood outside the study. Then Petersen opened the door. Where is the money Grace Miller gave you?"

I asked. He denied having taken any money. You mean to tell me a lie? Petersen made no reply to this. Searching his study I didn't find any trace of the money. I asked him to remove his clothing."

"Pardon me, Mr. Kreamer," said Tinning, "you mean you ordered him to take off his clothes?"

"Yes."

"Well what did you find?"

"Nothing, besides a 5 cent piece in his vest pocket. I remarked about that at the time."

"Did you tear anything up in the church, Mr. Kreamer?"

"Nothing outside of running my hand under a piece of threadbare cloth on one of the pews" (This remark was followed with a loud "oohh" from the audience.) "The book case was pulled out about a foot from the wall. I don't know who did it. Petersen remarked that Grace Miller might have put the money in a hand bag. She did not have any. Petersen, when I went in, had dust on his right knee and right shoulder."

"He seemed very nervous and I believe he took the money."

"We don't care what you think Mr. Kreamer. This court is capable of doing that," interposed Attorney T. H. DeLap.

"I heard Pierce ask Petersen about the money."

"Mr. Kreamer, did you call Petersen a certain gross epithet?" asked Tinning.

"No sir, no sir, absolutely not, no sir."

"Pierce also spoke to Petersen about him having told the Miller woman to let Pierce go."

"I and Officer Standford sat down in his study for quite a long time waiting for Pierce, Carlson and the Miller woman. During that time Petersen read a letter, did some work on a typewriter and looked over several books."

"Petersen still protested his innocence when Carlson and the Miller woman returned."

"I didn't search his study. The others did it. When we were almost ready to leave, Pierce said: 'It seems no use to talk to this damn fool,' meaning Petersen."

Kreamer proved one of the most valuable witnesses during the hearing for the defense in that he as a specially detailed lookout had failed to see the money change hands. Kreamer testified having seen the money on the table, but that was all.

Following Kreamer's testimony District Attorney Johnson asked that the case be continued until Thursday at 10 o'clock.

"Let's thresh the whole affair out right now," said Tinning.

Johnson pleaded that his presence was necessary before the grand jury.

"Well, you don't mean to infer that you are the entire district attorney's office," came the response from attorneys for the defendant. Johnson admitted that he was not, but pleaded an extension. He finally drew up an affidavit showing the necessity of continuing the case. With the consent of attorneys for the defense the hearing was postponed until Friday at 10 o'clock.

Witnesses to be examined at that time are Policeman Frank Standford, Grace Miller, several deputies from the county clerk's office, Chief of Police Walker and Rev. P. E. Petersen.

CROWDS PACK LAWNS AT CITY HALL EATING

One of the features of the preliminary hearing of Rev. Paul Edward Petersen yesterday was the large number of people who brought their lunches. When court was adjourned for the noon recess the lawns about the city hall were packed with eaters. When the trial was resumed at 1:30 o'clock the crowd was larger than in the morning.

The Delight of Children

The self-developed, inner-flavour of NEW POST TOASTIES bear a unique attraction for the kiddies—they even like them dry from the package for their lunches. A box of Toasties provides "eats" that will delight the children.

NEW POST TOASTIES are usually served with cream and sugar, in which form the flavour is more pronounced and the flakes more delicious. These NEW TOASTIES do not "chaff" or crumble in the package and they don't mush down in cream—both common defects of old-fashioned "corn flakes."

Then, too, notice the tiny bubbles on the flakes, produced by the quick, intense heat of a new patented process of making which imparts delightful crispness and a substantial body to the flakes.

NEW POST TOASTIES are a vast improvement over any old-style "corn flakes."

For tomorrow's breakfast—
